Grand Hotel Fasano Welcomes

Grand Hotel Fasano rises in a romantic scenery of water and hills, where originally the Austrian imperial family had built one of their hunting lodges in around the second half of the 19th century. It therefore takes its name from the aristocratic "fasanerie".

The hotel is situated directly on Garda lake and immersed in a 12.000 mq private park, known for being one of the most beautiful locations of Garda; the "Grand Fasano" Hotel offers an ideal setting for rest and relaxation. The pleasant atmosphere and the very attentive courteous service enhances the serene comfortable atmosphere of the place.

and green holiday

100% GREEN A2A
WE ONLY USE RENEWABLE ENERGIES

Our motto "Lusso naturale" (Natural Luxury) doesn't represent an advertising slogan, but rather a real philosophy reflected in many aspects of the hotel management. Starting from the choice of using only natural material for the refurbishment to the partnership with AVEDA that offers products in the respect and protection of the environment that goes beyond the cosmetics.

However, these responsible choices weren't enough according to our thinking, therefore to manage our hotel with more sustainable and competitive resources we had to go further.

Thanks to an important investment in state-of-the-art thermo-technical technology, we are now able to heat and cool the entire hotel without generating any emissions from the combustion of natural gas or fuel oil. The latest generation of heat pumps require only electricity and allow thermal efficiency that was unthinkable just a few years ago. The final step, to achieve advanced sustainability, was the agreement with the current electricity supplier A2A who guarantees the provenance from 100% renewable sources.

Once again, the GHF proves to keep up with the time, not only for the design of the furnishing and the attentive service but also for the use of leading-edge and ecologically friendly technology.

We are now offering to our guests a sustainable and green holiday.

Gardone — Riviera
Grand - Hotel Fasano

Grand Hotel Fasano, amidst the atmosphere of yesteryear and contemporary luxury

Il The Grand Hotel Fasano, located in Gardone Riviera on the western shores of Lake Garda, is a historic hotel constructed in 1888 in the Neoclassical style. Immersed in a splendid centuries old private park hosting rare species of botanical and arboreal plants, the hotel was officially declared a national heritage by the Italian Ministry of Cultural Heritage in 1989.

Its original designation as a hotel complex and not as a residential facility bears witness to the fact of the early vocation in tourism of the Garda Riviera. Notably towards the end of the 19th century, it becomes the winter holiday destination for numerous noble families of Austrian and German origin, attracted by the mild climate and fascinated by the luminosity of this corner of Northern Italy that heralds the warm Mediterranean atmosphere.

The earliest traces on Napoleonic maps

The two original portions of the buildings which today form the Grand Hotel Fasano are plainly visible on Napoleonic maps dating back as far as 1820 (fig. left). During this period and subsequent to the emergence of the tourism of the late 19th century with its consequent increase in activities related to this sector, the local inhabitants live mostly off the many resources available to them from both the land and the lake. The discovery of a large and ancient millstone in the park of the hotel suggests that there once existed an olive grove, indicating that part of this property along with other properties of the Riviera were once planted with olive trees. Among the other widespread and intensive agricultural productions were also those of lemons and citrus fruits in general (up until the Unification of Italy when goods start to circulate without duties, resulting in the import of these products from South Italy). The first architectural drawings of the Grand Hotel Fasano appear on an Austrian map of 1852 conserved at the Historical Land Registry of Brescia, where a sketch made in 1888 indicates the preliminary outline of the hotel.

This date marks the beginning of the hotel's long history, aimed from the outset towards an élite clientele who were able to enjoy the great innovations of that period, such as heating and hot water in almost all the rooms and facilities on the grounds. Not to mention an à la carte restaurant, a stylish coffee lounge, a billiard room, a tennis court, a lakeside bathhouse and bathing area and several terraces offering breath-taking views of the lake and the park.

VILLA PRINCIPE

During the Belle Époque, a tourist destination of great fashion

In 1903, the Grand Hotel Fasano was expanded to meet the ever growing demand for accommodation of the guests who stay there, especially during the winter season. The Riviera soon became a highly fashionable destination for the countries beyond the Alps; aristocrats from the North would flock to the Riviera from many of the greatest cities of Europe. The hotel was reached by trains arriving at the stations of Desenzano or Riva where the adventurous journey then continued by boat to the hotel's private boat landing, the Landungsbrücke; where the guests would then embark, met by an array of attendants and service staff.

Among the patrons of the Grand Hotel Fasano were many prominent personalities from the world of art, literature and aristocracy. Today we have vestige of their stay in rare copies of the Fremdenliste, a monthly gazette of that period from nearby Salò that published the list of all the people who were staying on the Riviera. The list, moreover incomplete, is very long.

Notable guests from the twentieth century to the present day

GABRIELE D'ANNUNZIO, who was planning to build his famous Italian Vittoriale in the village of Gardone Sopra only 500 meters from the hotel, often stayed at the Grand Hotel Fasano. He was very fond of the gardens, of the restaurant and of the bar, so much so that he devoted a three page written dedication in the hotel's 'Golden book'. An excerpt of this dedication in the original handwriting of the poet has been enlarged and now is displayed on a wall of the breakfast room of the hotel.

PAUL HEYSE, renowned German writer and winner of the Nobel Prize in Literature in 1910 is a guest of the hotel with his family in November of the year 1899. He fell in love with Lake Garda, and even after buying a villa in Gardone Riviera (Villa Heyse), in which he passed several winters while writing his book Maria von Magdala, remained a loyal guest of the hotel. GUSTAV KLIMT visited the hotel in 1913 during his summer residence on Lake Garda at which time he painted his famous pieces Italian Horticultural Landscape and Malcesine on Lake Garda.

Among other notable guests that frequented the Grand Hotel Fasano in the succeeding years included CATHERINE DUCHESS OF LEEDS and the MARQUESS OF CARMARTHEN in October of 1925 and PRINCE AND PRINCESS ALBRECHT ZU SCHAUMBURG-LIPPE in March 1930.

After the wars, the rebirth

The two world wars imposed upon the hotel a sudden interruption of the hotel's activities, disfiguring it with severe structural damage. Between 1915 and 1918 during World War I, the front line where the war was harshly fought was only a few kilometres from the hotel. The Grand Hotel Fasano, at that period, owned by the Boem family, was seized as a spoil of war and subsequently managed by the National Military Veterans Movement. Then during the Second World War, the Grand Hotel Fasano was even requisitioned by the Italian Military Hospital but then later confiscated by the German High Command who converted it into a war hospital. Befat the end of the conflict the hotel was requisitioned twice mat by military forces, once by the U.S. 5th Army and then by the British forces.

In a letter of request for damage compensation suffered as a result of World War II, the director Giuseppe Mayr describes the sorrowful conditions in which the hotel is found, "Plundered several times with only a few pieces of battered furniture remaining, the wooden floors ripped out and used as fuel for the stoves".

However, thanks to the great reconstructive efforts, the Grand Hotel almost completely recovers its impressive image and in 1948 reopens for the summer season.

Natural Luxury

The years that follow, bring new challenges. An increasingly affluent middle class is now the heart of the environment of the Grand Hotel Fasano. In 1962, the hotel was expanded for the third time. Since then, continuous restructuring and constant updating of the elements that determine absolute comfort permit the Grand Hotel Fasano to maintain its position of excellence in the accommodations enjoyed and appreciated by an international and cosmopolitan clientele. Today, the hotel operated for three generations by the Mayr family, is classified as a 5 star luxury hotel, with restaurants, bar, beach club and a large spa inspired by the ancient Roman thermal baths with indoor and outdoor swimming pools, offering the best of wellness.

Nevertheless, the actuality of contemporary comforts has not erased the age-old charm of this historic place and the suggestive air of the past that permeates its rooms and suites, thanks to the philological maintenance of the environment.

OUR FAMILY OWN MUSEUM IN GARDONE

The first and only museum in the world with an extensive library on the subject of the Divine child

The collection comprises over 250 sculptures dating from four different centuries. With the help of the exhibits it documents the techniques and materials as well as the use and iconography of the sculptures, which mostly represent Baby Jesus and, in some rare cases, the female form of Mary's child."

In the museum we can admire all different types of Baby Jesus sculptures: put in nappies, naked, or as a small king dressed in beautiful robes and adorned with rich ornaments. Apart from the sculptures just described the museum also houses a historical Neapolitan crib with over 130 figures and a whole lot of animals.
